About us:

Haute école de gestion de Genève (Geneva school of business administration) is the largest business school of the HES-SO network in the French-speaking part of Switzerland, with approximately 1500 undergraduate students, and around 300 students in executive education programs. HEG-Geneva is a public, practice-oriented, university-level institution, delivering Bachelor and Master degrees. Our programs are designed to train tomorrow's professionals. HEG-Geneva is positioning itself as the reference school in terms of applied management in the Geneva region.

International Business Management is a young and dynamic department created in 2013. Providing a unique Bachelor program entirely in English, it currently hosts around 400 undergraduate students. Built on a mix of professors, lecturers and external lecturers with professional expertise, the department has contributed to increase the international activities of HEG.
