The seminars of the Intermigra Laboratory aim to foster exchanges among members of the three higher education institutions based in Geneva (University of Geneva, Geneva Graduate Institute, and Geneva School of Social Work – HETS Genève) and from various disciplines (sociology, anthropology, geography, social work, political science, demography, etc.) on topics related to migration, mobility, inequalities, different forms of othering and racialization, gender issues, discrimination, and racism to which so-called minorities may be subject. The seminars emphasize an intersectional and multidisciplinary approach.

The Intermigra Lab organizes a monthly seminar where researchers present their work (research, publications, training modules, etc.), which may be at various stages of progress. These meetings, open to all interested parties, provide an opportunity for constructive exchange on different themes among people at various stages of their academic careers.

The Intermigra Lab also intends to bring together associations, institutions, and political representatives working in the fields of migration and racism once a year to discuss recurring and emerging issues with researchers and to put forward recommendations for public policy.

Program :

5:30-7:00 pm : Presentations and discussions

7:00-8:00 pm : Informal discussions and drinks
